

VIRGINIA TECH

celebrates

INTERNATIONAL WEEK
March 21 – 27, 2016

CRANWELL INTERNATIONAL CENTER

The Council of International Student Organizations (CISO) has partnered with Virginia Tech's international clubs to sponsor events and programs for this year's International Week – all events are open to the public!

Framing Your International Experience

March 21, 5:30 – 6:30 p.m.

Smith Career Center, Meeting Room B

Learn how to frame your study abroad experience before you head out. Hear what qualities employers want you to take away from your international experience and how Career Services can help. Light refreshments will be served.

Gender-Based Violence Training for International Programs

March 22, 10:30 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.

Newman Library, Multipurpose Room

This interactive training will provide dynamic scenario based discussion and suggestions for faculty and staff when leading international programs. Topics to be discussed include compliance with Title IX responsibilities, the desire to respond in the most supportive manner possible, and disclosures of sexual or relationship violence. This event is sponsored by the Women's Center, VT Engage, and the Global Education Office.

A Day in the Life in the Corps of Cadets as an International Student

March 22, 11:00 a.m. - 12:00 p.m.

North End Center, Room 2200

Have you ever wondered about what the Corps of Cadets is, why it exists at Virginia Tech, or why they do certain things? Did you know there are international students who are also cadets or wonder why they would join? Hear from a panel of fellow international students as they break down myths about the Corps, talk about why they joined, and what daily life is like.

International Women's Group

March 22, 12:00 – 1:00 p.m.

Cranwell International Center, Community Room

This women-only group meets every Tuesday to provide women a comfortable place to discuss women's issues and to share their experiences of living in another country. Participants are welcome to bring their children and/or visitors.

Sounds from Latin America

March 22, 7:30 p.m.

Squires, Old Dominion Ballroom

Enjoy a free, informal concert with music from countries around Latin America. Songs are in Spanish with commentaries in English and Spanish (Or Spanglish)!

Israeli Cooking Workshop

March 23, 5:30 – 7:00 p.m.

Turner Place at Lavery Hall

Get a taste of Israeli culture by attending the Purim themed cooking demonstration and presentation by an Israeli vegan chef, Ori Shavit. 35 lucky participants will enjoy a 3-course meal prepared during the workshop.
